DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President.
WOODROW WILSON,
of New Jersey.
For Vice President.
THOS. R. MARSHALL, of Indiana.

The Italians have turned upon the Austrians with such fury that they have sent them back in a general retreat along the entire front.

Where now are the principles for which Roosevelt bolted four years ago? The principles have not changed but how about the politician who made monkeys of his followers at Chicago?

If Attorney General Gregory is to be made Justice of the Supreme Court, why not make Secretary of War Baker attorney general and appoint a soldier as Secretary of War? War ought not to be a politician's job.

A Mexican deserter has come forward with the story that Villa was really shot last April in a fight with Carranza troops, by a Mexican forced into his ranks and who later deserted without knowing the result of the hand's wound. But any kind of Mexican news needs confirmation.

A German report on the aeroplane raid on Karlsruhe June 22 shows that 110 persons, including five women and seventy-five children were killed and 147 persons injured, including twenty women and seventy-nine children. The French made the raid in reprisal for the bombardment of Bar-le-Duc and Lunville by the Germans.

By a vote of 32 to 6, with nine members declining to vote, the national committee of the progressive party Monday endorsed Charles E. Hughes for president and the bull moose party practically went out of existence as a national political organization. The decision to endorse the republican nominee came at the end of a stormy session led by John M. Parker, the nominee for vice-president. Roosevelt's letter of declining the nomination and declaring himself for Hughes influenced the action of the committeemen, controlled by him with but few exceptions.

The United States consulate at Torreon, Mexico, was demolished June 18, by a mob of 3,000 civilians, led by the mayor of the city and a Carranza army band, according to American refugees arriving at Eagle Pass, Tex. The populace was attending a bull fight, according to the refugees, when de facto government troops forced them to join in an anti-American demonstration. The mob rushed through the streets shouting, "death to all the gringos!" and upon reaching the consulate, destroyed the furniture and then wrecked the building. Afterward the mob congregated in the central plaza of the town, where a mass meeting was held. The mayor and other prominent Mexicans, it is said, addressed this meeting inciting the populace against Americans, advising that all citizens of the United States be run out of the country.

Man Bound to Succeed.
It is the man who carefully pegs his way up step by step, with his mind becoming wider and wider, and progressively better able to grasp any theme or situation, persevering in what he knows to be practical and concentrating his thought upon it, who is bound to succeed in the greatest degree.—Alexander Graham Bell.

CATS ALMOST BLIND IN LIGHT

Bred for Generations in Old Slave Cells Beneath Hotel at Savannah, Ga.

Except for the old slave market at Milledgeville, Savannah has, in the foundations of the Pulaski hotel, Georgia's most remarkable memento of the days when men were sold as chattels.

The basement of this ancient hostelry is honeycombed with bricked-up cells used during the period before the war by slave owners for the safe-keeping of their charges en route to and from the big slave markets to the north.

There are very few people of this generation who know of the "under-pinnings" of the old hotel. The basement is now inhabited by cats, and these are gradually going blind in the light of day, while their sight in the gloom of the dungeons is being intensified.

Savannah was a great stopping place for the slave owners in the old days, and it was for the convenience of these that the underground apartments were provided when the Pulaski was built something like 100 years ago.

For more than 50 years these old cells have been forgotten, and many generations of felines have bred their kittens in them, shunning the light of day, until the present cycle of cats are almost blind in the light of the sun.

They are a submerged link between the new South and the old.

SURE ENOUGH.

Mrs. Bacon—I understand that Mrs. Styles took her baby to the opera.

Mr. Bacon—What for, I wonder? The little thing can't talk yet.

ROUGH ON HIM.

Sapleigh—I've just brought a blank book to write my thoughts in. Miss Keen—It will remain blank if you use it only for that purpose.

EASY ENOUGH.

"I long for movement, life, change of scenery; what would you advise me to do?"

"Get a job as a stage hand."

CLASSIFIED.

Hobbs—My landlady has both strong and weak points.

Dobbs—What are they?

Hobbs—Butter and coffee.

A HINT.

Staylate (11:30)—If there is anything I dislike it's catching trains. Miss Sweet—I notice you keep putting it off.

Terrible Train Of Troubles.

Lake Charles, La.—Mrs. E. Fournier, 516 Kirby street, says: "The month before I took Cardui, I could hardly walk. I had backache, headache, pain in my legs, chills, fainting spells, sick stomach, dragging feelings, and no patience or courage. Since taking Cardui, I have no more pains, can walk as far as I want to and feel good all the time." Take Cardui and be benefited by the peculiar herb ingredients which have been found so efficient for womanly ills. Cardui will relieve that backache, headache, and all the misery from which you suffer, just as it has done for others. Try Cardui. Advertisement.

Supply of Fat a Necessity.

Fats, which form about 15 per cent of the weight of the body, are found in meats, vegetable products, butter and other dairy foods. It is largely through an excess of fat that protein is stored in the body, to be drawn upon when needed.

Unkind.

"I don't see why you are so down on Jones." "He once tried to rob me of my reputation." "You shouldn't have stopped him."—Boston Transcript.

READ CHARACTER FROM FEET

Shoe Dealer Says They Are a Sure Index to Their Owner's State of Mind.

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Ohio Retail Shoe Dealers' association maintain the feet are closely related to character.

"Feet are not only parts of the anatomy—no pun intended," said O. K. Dorn, a Cleveland shoe dealer.

"It's possible to read character from feet, just as a phrenologist reads character from the head.

"Women's feet are especially good indexes of states of mind.

"No matter how serene a woman may be outwardly, you can guess her state of mind from the position of her feet.

"She may say a shoe fits, with a smile on her face, but her feet will betray her. She'll sit with the soles turned toward each other, or keep the soles pressed tightly to the floor. Again she may raise the soles from the floor and press down with the heels.

"Turned-in toes indicate restlessness. Anger is shown by digging the heel into the floor, nervousness by tapping of the foot.

"Policemen and detectives often make use of this knowledge to obtain confessions from suspects."—Cleveland Press.

Two Americans British Peers.
William Waldorf Astor is not the only living American-born British peer. Francis Allston Channing, whose earliest years were spent in Massachusetts, was created a baronet in 1902, and was elevated to the peerage in 1912, when he became Baron Channing. He was born in this country March 21, 1841. His father, Rev. W. H. Channing, closed his pastorate in Cincinnati that year and moved to Boston. In 1852 he succeeded James Martineau as pastor of the Hope street chapel in Liverpool, and although the last years of the Civil war saw him back in America, serving as the chaplain of the national senate, he remained in England for practically the rest of his life. Francis Allston Channing was educated at Oxford, and has had a distinguished, though not a conspicuous career, both at Oxford and in English public life.

Wanted Pennell in the Trenches.
How am I to give a really vivid picture of trench life as I saw it for the first time? How make it live for others, when I remember that the many descriptive accounts I have read in England, many of them the letters of soldiers, did not in the least visualize it for me? I watched the flames rising from the German lines, watched them burst into points of light over the desolate country called No-Man's-Land and drift slowly down. And I watched the shadows rush back again like the very wind of darkness. I wished that Joseph Pennell might see something of this fascinating night life. It seemed to me that he would be able to catch the beauty of it with his blacks and whites, make it real for the world, which will never see it as I did, against the dark background, which was my own first glimmering realization of the tremendous sadness, the awful futility of war.—James Norman Hall in the Atlantic Monthly.

Iceland's First Dramatist.
Gudmundur Kamban, who has come to this country to publish his works in English, is Iceland's first dramatist. He was born in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, twenty-seven years ago, and at the age of eighteen he began writing his first play, "Hadda Padda." After three years, when it had been published in his native land, he went to Copenhagen to attend the university. Having learned Danish, a language very different from his native tongue, he translated his drama and offered it to the Royal theater of Copenhagen. It was accepted and produced in 1913 and since then has been played in 50 theaters throughout the land.

REGION BUT LITTLE KNOWN

Real Wilderness in Country Northeast of Lake St. John—Seldom Visited Except by Trappers.

The region northeast of Lake St. John is off at one side, where nobody thinks of going except a few trappers. The mining and timber have not seemed rich enough to draw the white man.

The main avenue of approach is the Big Peribonka, the largest of the Lake St. John rivers. The real wilderness begins in the neighborhood of Lake Tchotogoma, 60 miles up the river. Beyond that stretches a vast region, as fresh and wild, as natural and primitive, as anything discovered by Columbus, and with fewer human tenants. In the last fifty miles of its course the Big Peribonka comes down from its high plateau roaring through defiles of ragged rock and making necessary ten or more portages, several of them in the perpendicular style of architecture. Of late years a rude wagon road has been extended through the burnt-over country between the village of Mistook, near Lake St. John, and the Chute McLeod, the last but one of these Peribonka falls. The necessity of climbing up a steep river has thus been largely eliminated. Lake Tchotogoma may be reached from the other direction, where the means of access have also been improved, and one coming up from Quebec by the Saguenay boat should go in from that quarter and come out by the new route down the Peribonka.

The outfit is carried from Chicoutimi, at the head of steamboat navigation, up to the foot of rough water in the river, a distance of seven miles. Then comes a wagon journey of 22 miles northerly to the Lac des Iles.—Outing.

BIRD BUILDS 3-ROOM HOUSE

Hammerhead Is So Good an Engineer That Its Nest Will Bear the Weight of a Man.

No single-room apartment satisfies the hammerhead. When he builds his nest he divides it into three rooms—a reception hall, a drawing room and a bedroom. The entire structure is built of sticks, dome shape, and sometimes six feet in diameter. The bird is so good a carpenter and engineer that the nest will bear the weight of a man. In appearance the bird looks always as if he needed a haircut. His long locks, hanging down his neck, have given him his name, hammerhead.

The entrance to his domelike nest is small and on the concealed side. The first room is the hall, where the hammerhead lives when he fears attack. Behind this is the drawing room, the home of the young birds when they outgrow the bedroom.

The bedroom is higher than the rest and safe from floods. Here the female bird deposits eggs on a nest of leaves, and both parents take turns at keeping them warm.

The hammerhead lives in Africa, usually builds his nest near a stream and eats fish, frogs, lizards and small snakes.

THE REAL THING.

"She seems to be a woman of refinement," remarked the one.
"Of course she is," answered the other. "Her husband owns a sugar refinery."

WAR! What Is It? All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour clashing just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia? Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions are being sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by some of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give you

FREE—"Europe at War"

A big book and over 300 pages, size 10 x 7 inches, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, containing the dramatic history of the great events leading up to the present time; over 50 important and timely special articles by experts on the different phases of the conflict; hundreds of graphic pictures, portraits, photographs, diagrams, specially drawn war maps, illuminating statistical records, copies of official documents and diplomatic messages exchanged between the powers—a clear, vivid, accurate, permanent, interesting and valuable record—a record which once seen you will not willingly be without. Europe's past and present are here dramatically pictured and presented. Hundreds of illustrations graphically tell their own stories. More fascinating than any romance, here is a history so vivid, so dramatic, so stirring, so fascinating, so realistic, so wonderfully presented, so thrillingly told that it leaves an ineffable impression.

Your War News Clarified
